

The Product

Is meant to please the product buyer, who will be able to try clothes on without too much work, and the product owner, because more customers will be lured to the store. What is very advantageous, considering that the more consumers enter a store, the more products can be sold.

Product concept

